CLASH OF AUTHORITY

Between the Jailer and Mayor of Newport.

Question Arose About the Placing of Caleb Powers in Newport Jail.

MAYOR'S TEETH KNOCKED OUT

Caleb Powers the famous political prisoner of Kentucky, who was removed from Georgetown, Ky., Jail to Newport Monday under orders of Judge Cochran, of the Federal Court, was the innocent cause of a sensational affray between Mayor Helmbold, of Newport, and Jailer Ploeger that evening that resulted in the arrest of the latter and three other persons, and before it was over the mayor had two teeth knocked out, and revolvers were drawn.

The trouble occurred at the Newport Jail and was a result of the decision of Republican leaders that Powers, during his stay in the Newport Jail, should not be herded with common criminals but should have a room separated from the cellhouse and much larger than the ordinary cell.

Prior to Powers's arrival at the Newport Jail workmen, under the supervision of Jailer Ben Ploeger, were put to work arranging the room.

Postmaster John May, and other prominent Republicans assisted Jailer Ploeger, who is also Republican, in getting ready for the famous prisoner, and when he arrived the floor had been scrubbed, the walls of the room and corridor had been tinted a delicate blue, rugs adorned the floor, and curtains had been hung on the windows.

In addition tables, chairs, a nice iron bed, with plenty of clean, new bedding, were installed, together with a table and writing desk, for Powers intends to continue his literary and legal studies while an inmate of the Newport Jail.

The Mayor sought out Jailer Ploeger and together they made an inspection of the cellhouse and the barred room that the Republican leaders intended for the use of Powers. When they had finished the inspection a discussion arose as to the propriety of placing Powers in the prisoners' cage. Mayor Helmbold contended that he should be placed in the cellhouse. The two officials became angry and blows were struck.

When the melee which had occurred in the corridor of the jail, was over, Mayor Helmbold ordered Chief of Police to arrest his assailants and all the jail officials were arrested.

Jailer Ploeger gave the following version of the trouble, he said:

"The Mayor, Chief of Police Deputy and I returned to the first floor corridor after inspecting the jail. The Mayor told me that Powers should be kept in the cellhouse at night, at least; that he was responsible for the jail and the safe-keeping of the prisoners. I told him I thought that he was mistaken; that it is I who am responsible. He insisted that Powers must be kept in the jail proper, especially at night. The argument continued and the Mayor would not listen to reason. He said Powers would not be put in the prisoners' cage. I said he would. The Mayor shook his finger under my nose and became abusive. Then the row started. I will not say whether or not I hit him. But I know what my rights are."

After the arrest of the jail officers two policemen were placed in charge of the room that had been intended for Powers, with instructions to admit no one. All of the furniture and furnishings that had been placed in the room by the Republican leaders was thrown out.

After the trouble at the jail Jailer Ploeger resolved to get still more even with Mayor Helmbold for his interference, and swore out warrants before United States Commissioner Leonard for the arrest of Newport Mayor and Policemen. Paul Flinn and James Ratican, who had been stationed in the jail to see that Powers did not occupy the cage which had been especially furnished for his occupancy.

To prevent the county officers from placing Powers in the cage the two officers went into it themselves, and when Powers was brought forward they pushed him out, so Jailer Ploeger says. He was then taken upstairs, and in the meanwhile the door to the cage was locked preventing the two policemen from coming out. They were so held pending the arrival of the warrants, which were read to them through the cell bars.

United States Marshal Steve Sarp, as soon as he was handed the warrant sworn to by Jailer Ploeger went to the Mayor's residence on Central Avenue, but he having been advised by friends of the proceedings, had left his home and could not be found.

The warrants charges Helmbold and his policeman with having resisted a United States officer in the discharge of his duty, and that they had conspired to obstruct the execution of an order of the Federal Circuit Court in the placing of Caleb Powers, a United States prisoner in jail at Newport, and that they did "assault, intimidate and oppress" Powers while in the custody of a Federal officer in violation of the law and construction, which extend to Federal authorities the right to protect from violence a prisoner in their custody.

Jailer Ploeger placed the two officers in a basement cell, where Mayor Helmbold wanted Powers incarcerated, and after arranging the furniture, &c., as previously designed Powers was brought down from upstairs and placed in the room where his friends prepared for him.

Great excitement incident to the stormy times between the city and county officials prevails throughout Newport and Covington.

WAGON FACTORY

At Owensboro Destroyed by Fire Last Sunday Morning

Fire broke out in the main building of the Owensboro Wagon company's plant Sunday morning and the building was practically destroyed, says the Owensboro Messenger. Had it not been for the very efficient work of the fire department, all of the buildings belonging to the company would have been burned to the ground.

The loss to the buildings and machinery will amount, according to the estimate of W. A. Steele, general manager, to about $60,000, a large part of which was machinery. Had the fire spread to the other buildings of the factory, the loss would have been immense. The loss is fully covered by insurance. Over $130,000 was carried on the property.

The alarm was turned in at 5:25 o'clock and in four minutes the engines from both houses were on the scene. The water pressure was quite strong three lines of hose bursting before the fire was extinguished and by heroic fighting the fire was kept from spreading.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It evidently started in the blacksmith shop where there seems to have been the least likelihood of fire. The night watchman had been in that part of the building according to his statement, just twelve minutes before he discovered the fire, and saw no signs at that time of the fire.

NEW SECRETARY OF STATE.

Elihu Root Has Accepted the Responsible Position.

Was Formerly Secretary of War Which Position he Filled to Satisfaction of All

[Special to THE REPUBLICAN.] Washington, D. C., July 12, 1905.

The President has offered the important post of Secretary of State to Elihu Root and Mr. Root has accepted. This brief announcement from Oyster Bay will prove an occasion of gratification to the American people who may rest assured that with the international relations of the United States in the hands of so able a man as Elihu Root they will be well safeguarded. The feeling seems to be unanimous among public men in private life who keeps in touch with public affairs that the President and the nation are to be congratulated on the wisdom of the President's selection and on the acceptance of a place at the cabinet table by Elihu Root. The splendid work which Mr. Root performed as Secretary of War is regarded as a certain guarantee of his success as Secretary of State. The masterly manner in which he conducted the affairs relating to the Philippine, insurrection, his board statementship as demonstrated in his conduct of the relations of the United States with Cuba, and his remarkable foresight and constructive ability as displayed in his reorganization of the army and the military of the nation have all served to demonstrate his remarkable ability and to convince the people, as they have the President, of Mr. Root's pre-eminent ability to conduct with credit and eclat the affairs of any department of the government entrusted to him.

Since leaving the cabinet, eighteen months ago, Mr. Root has been entrusted with numerous legal cases of great importance and it will require at least two weeks for him to sever his connection with his various clients. At the end of that time he will come to Washington and take the oath of office but it is probable that not until autumn will he come back to Washington as a permanent resident. The belief is generally expressed that when Mr. Root does take hold of the affairs of the Department of State he will institute a new regime, that many of the fossils who now cumber the offices of one of the most important departments of the government will be compelled either to reform their methods and make some attempts to render a fair return for the compensation they receive or to hand in their resignations. As Secretary of War Mr. Root proved a cold, but a just employer. He was quick to recognize merit where merit existed, but was invariably intolerant of slack methods of doing business and gave short shrift to the man who were disposed to regard employment as a political "snap" carrying with it the privilege of drawing salary without doing much, if any work. As Mr. Root's reputation in this regard has traveled before him there is some consternation among the barnacles of the Department of State.

Governor of Alabama Endorses Pe-ru-na.

State Officials Praises.

The Magnificent State Capitol Building of Alabama.

Governor of Alabama Commends Pe-ru-na.

In a letter dated July 26, 1896, written from Montgomery, Ala., Governor Joseph J. Johnston, says: "I join Congressman Brewer in commending Peruna."—Joseph J. Johnston.

ONE of the most wonderful events in the history of medicine is the multitude of endorsements which Peruna is receiving as a catarrh cure from men of national importance.

The most distinguished men of the United States have no hesitation in lending their influence to assist in letting the public know of the merits of Peruna.

Nearly one-half the people are in some way affected by catarrh. Therefore it is almost a national curse, and it is of national import that the people should know of Peruna.

Catarrh is an American disease. Peruna is an American remedy.

Catarrh is a result of changeable climate. Peruna is a result of long and careful experimentation.

Catarrh enters the system through the nerve centers and affects the mucous membranes. Peruna enables the nerve centers to repel and expel the catarrh from the system.

Catarrh is a systemic disease and curable only by systemic treatment. The remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does.

Redeemer of Public Moneys.

Hon. John C. Lettwich, Redeemer of Public Moneys, whose office is in the Postoffice Building, in a letter written from Montgomery, Ala., says:

"I take pleasure in recommending

Peruna as an excellent tonic, and it is recommended to me by those who have used it as a good catarrh cure."—John C. Lettwich.

Register United States Land Office.
Hon. Robert Barber, Register United States Land Office, writes from Montgomery, Ala.:

"For some time I have been a sufferer from catarrh in its incipient stage, so much so that I became depressed and feared my health was generally in a decline. But hearing of Peruna as a good remedy I gave it a fair trial and began to improve. Its effects were distinctly beneficial, removing the annoying symptoms, and it was particularly good as a tonic."—Robert Barber.

Collector of Port.
Hon. J. K. Burke, Collector of Port, Mobile, Ala., writes:

"Peruna I can recommend as a fine medicine. It has been used in my family and as a tonic it is excellent. I take pleasure in testifying to its fine qualities."—J. K. Burke.

Postmaster of Mobile.
Hon. P. D. Barker, Postmaster of

Mobile, in a recent letter from Mobile, Ala., says: "Allow me to send to you my testimonial as to the good qualities of Peruna. I have used it for the past three months and find it is a most excellent tonic."—P. D. Barker.

U. S. Marshal, Northern District.
Hon. Dan Cooper, U. S. Marshal for the Northern District of Alabama, writes:

"Your remedy for catarrh and la grippe, Peruna, has done me so much good that I cannot speak too highly of it."

"I have used it for a short time and have improved rapidly from the first day. I was really much surprised at such a quick and effective cure."—Dan Cooper.

U. S. Marshal, Southern District.
Hon. L. J. Bryan, U. S. Marshal for the Southern District of Alabama, writes:

"I have used Peruna for catarrh a short time and have also had several friends try it and they all pronounce it the best catarrh remedy ever put on the market. It can not be praised too highly."—L. J. Bryan.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio, and he will give you the benefit of his valuable advice gratis. All correspondence strictly confidential.

THE NEW RAILROAD

Rumors That it is Backed and Financed by L. & N.

Which if True is Best Assurance That the Road Will Be Built.

The proposed railroad from Madisonville via Hartford to Fordsville or Cloverport seems to be almost assured. Surveyors are 'sighting' the way and the local promoters are using diligence in procuring the remaining right-of-way. It looks a go from the Madisonville point of observation.

The Madisonville Hustler says of the outlook:

"It is considered a sure thing that the railroad from Madisonville to Cloverport or some other point on the Ohio river will be built without much delay. The surveyors are now in the field locating the line and there is little doubt that they are now locating it where it will finally go. It is evident to the person who studies the matter a little that the work in connection with the Cloverport proposition has been carefully planned and has been ably managed up to this time, and it would seem that little, if anything remains to be done to perfect the scheme originally decided upon by the promoters.

Of course there are all sorts of rumors in connection with the ultimate ownership and operation of the road. The promoters have carefully kept their ultimate purpose a secret and the public can only surmise as to what system will control the Cloverport line when built. It is being ostensibly promoted by parties at Hartford and Madisonville. It is no secret that the road, when built, is to be turned over to somebody.

The latest rumor is, and it seems to have pretty good foundation, that the L. & N. is behind the proposition, that the line will run from Madisonville to Fordsville, where a branch line of the Texas reaches, and that this branch be used for reaching the Ohio river."

If the L. & N. Railroad company is backing the scheme there is no better assurance that the road will be built and it will be none the less a great boom to Ohio county people. Here's wishing success to any company that may be behind the proposition.

UNDERWOOD ARREST.

Affecting Scene When Alleged Boot-Legger Faces Children in Sheriff's Office.

Glasgow, Ky., July 10—T. D. Underwood, ex-County Attorney of this county, who was wanted here for being in partnership with negro boot-leggers and for receiving a bribe, was arrested at the home of his brother, Al Underwood, five miles from town this afternoon. He was brought here and lodged in jail.

Underwood was arrested last week in Indian Territory, but before an officer could arrive he had been released on a writ of habeas corpus. A very affecting scene occurred between Underwood and his children in the Sheriff's office soon after he reached town. Underwood was exposed and fled from here in February. His bond is fixed at $3,000.

WORLD'S WAR.

The Whole World is Now About Ready For War.

England Seems to be the Only European Country That is Quiet.

Never has the political horizon of the world been as clouded as it is now since the day when the great Napoleon played ball with the kingdoms of Europe. Everywhere, is disorder and unrest.

Russia is practically in a state of revolution which only the strict censorship prevents from becoming generally known. Street fights, which are regular battles are being fought in the barricaded streets of Lodz.

The danger of war between Norway and Sweden is by no means over.

War between Germany and France is hanging over our heads like the sword of Damocles.

Austria and Hungary are in a state of the greatest turmoil, and that actual civil war has not broke out is due to the love and respect of every body to the old Emperor, Francis Joseph. What will happen when he dies is impossible to foretell, but that his successor will not be the ruler of both countries is a foregone conclusion.

In Italy the people are being driven to despair by the increasing taxes and the strength of the country is being sapped by the continuous emigration.

In the Balkans there is the usual confusion, the people of the various Christian states are killing each other and the Turks massacring them all.

Behind the walls of Konak in Belgrade, King Peter lives in steady fear of his life, a fear which has almost driven him insane.

In Germany the socialist criticism of this Kaiser is sharper than ever, and that in spite of the great risk incurred in writing anything which displeases the Emperor. What the Socialists especially object to is the Kaiser's growing extravagance. He owns 83 landed estates, all of them models in their line, and many of them very profitable, although the men working on the imperial estates are paid higher wages than anywhere else.

The Kaiser is allowed an annual income of $4,000,000, but is always in financial straits, and the rumors in the English press that he had borrowed large amounts from Berlin bankers were undoubtedly true.

In Spain King Alfonso is doing his best to keep his poverty stricken people from rebelling.

In all Europe England is the only quiet spot, and in the hands of King Edward lies largely the question of peace war.

Indians Capture a Whale.

Three score Siwash in a fleet of canoes attacked and killed a whale a few days ago off Cape Flattery, and, according to the officers of the Norwegian steamer, Tricolor, the red men in the vicinity of Neah Bay have been living high on blubber ever since. The whale had been seen off the coast for several days, and the expedition to which the big fish surrendered, was organized and equipped especially for the chase and capture of the leviathan. Every canoe carried a dozen harpoons, and to each harpoon was attached a tight-rope. Every time a canoe approached within a few feet of the whale, a harpoon was thrown into the whale's tough hide. When the Victoria tug Lorne came upon the scene the whale had been "hit" many times and resembled a monster hedgehog. In addition to the annoyance caused by the forest of steel shafts, there were so many bladders moored to his carcass that, try as he would, he could not sink and so find at least a temporary refuge from his tormentors. When the Indians had assured themselves of the buoyancy of their prey they threw in a few more harpoons with lines attached and attempted to herd the whale into Neah Bay, at the same time using him as a towboat for the fleet. But the big fish was too far gone to be of much use in harness; so, with a few bombs, the Siwash torpedoes the monster to death and hired a tug boat to tow the carcass into Neah Bay. They beached the remains and are still serving free blubber to all comers.

DOWN WITH THE ONION.

Ohio Women are After the Humble but Odorous Vegetable.

[Portsmouth (Ohio) Dispatch.]

The onion, that odorous vegetable which renders a very pretty mouth unmissable, estranges friends and disgusts the public, is an outcast in Portsmouth, where society is now waging a relentless war against it.

In a course of lectures given under the auspices of the Alliance of Woman's Club in Portsmouth one of the speakers, in the course of a talk upon "Gastronomic Eccentricities," laid bare the fact that the onion had absolutely no value as a food that it had no taste whatever, appealing only to the senses of smell; and that it was really useless to the stomach, as well as a nuisance, because of the disposition of its nastiness to manifest itself in the breath.

Immediately there started all sorts of arguments about the onion, many taking the part of the now crushed and down-trodden vegetable.

Strange to say these arguments grew so heated that life-time friends refused to speak, brothers quarreled and in one instance an engagement was broken off because the prospective groom carried in his pocket an onion for the purpose, he said, of demonstrating the contention that it had taste.

In endeavoring to settle the whole dispute the Alliance of Woman's Clubs convened in extraordinary session and adopted resolutions which have drawn upon inspiration for facts. The resolutions are as follows:

Whereas, The most flagrant violation of the feelings of others which is at all prevalent of the beginning of the twentieth century is the use of the onion; and

Whereas, The process of evolution which civilization represents has always gradually increased its consideration for the feelings of others until many customs and habits which were offensive to a minority of the persons going to make up society have been discontinued; and

Whereas, In the higher civilization the onion will be grown only to furnish specimens for botanical collections, where it will be classed with the noxious herbs of the lily family; and

Whereas, There is to the person not addicted to the vice of onion eating nothing so disgusting, nothing so sickening as the penetrating noisome odor which emanates from the person of one who has feasted on this foul-smelling vegetable, and it is absolutely without excuse; and

Whereas, The Apostle Paul, in his letter to the Romans, doubtless referred to the eating of onions when he said, "if any man defile the temple of God him shall God destroy, for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are; therefore,

Be it declared, The sense of this body that the following facts be set forth to settle a discussion now cutting gyal contortions in our midst: The onion has no value as a food. It is 90 per cent water and wood fiber, which furnish no nourishment and aside from these components, it has nothing but an acrid, volatile, essential oil. It has not even taste. It appeals to the appetites of those it has debauched only through the sense of smell. One by putting a piece of it on his tongue while holding his nose can prove this for himself.

Many say, "Why isn't the onion healthy?" Yes, and so is asafetida which has exactly the same gastronomic value and is used as a condiment by some dark skinned heathens of the Orient.

ANIMALS AS SURGEONS.

Birds Set Broken Legs, and Bees and Cattle Understand Medicine.

[Baltimore News.]

A party of Johns Hopkins students were talking about "immunity" recently. One of them remarked that a dog's saliva has a perfect bactericidal and healing power, and suggested that perhaps it would make a good antiseptic, although it seemed that no bacteriologist had caught the hint contained in the simple process of a dog's licking a sore, a process seen every day.

This idea was discussed generally. The young man who first mentioned it took down a pile of old magazines, and after a diligent search produced a clipping from a medical journal containing a paper by Dr. George M. Gould. Here is a part of it:

"When we commence observation of the origin of medical discovery and treatment we are struck by the fact that our brothers, the animals, were first in learning not a little of medical art. It has been noticed that birds often show a true surgical instinct. M. Tatlo on several occasions has killed woodcock that were, when shot, convalescing from wounds previously received, and in every instant found the old injury neatly dressed with down plucked from the stems of feathers and skillfully arranged over the wound, evidently by the beak of the birds.

"In some instances a solid plaster was thus formed, and in others ligatures had been applied to wounded or broken limbs. Ten times in his experience he has found birds whose limbs had been broken by shot, with the fractured ends neatly approximated and ligatured together, a statement that is vouched for by no less a naturalist than Fulbert Domonteil.

"Dr. James Weir says that when bees are attacked with diarrhoea they at once begin to suck astrigent pieces of the dogwood, poplar, wild cherry or hickory and rapidly cure themselves. Their instinct carries them so far that in winter if they should happen to be afflicted they will readily drink a decoction of wild cherry if it is placed in the hive. Moreover, they seem to know that filth is a source of disease.

"Dr. Weir further believes that many of the higher animals have discovered and used a materia medica that should be recognized by human physicians. For instance, dogs will seek out and devour the long blades of cough-grass (triticum repens) when they are constipated; horses and mules will eat clay when they have scours; cattle with eczema have been seen to plaster hoof and joint with mud. He speaks of seeing a cow break thin ice on a pond and treat her itching joint to a mud poultice. Cats will go miles when they are under the weather for a dose of catnip."

"The saliva of animals seems to have a distinct curative action. Dogs, cats, cattle rodents, monkeys, all lick their wounds when they can get at them and soon effect cures. Weir also tells of a large dog-faced monkey who scratched his shoulder badly on a projecting nail in his cage. He immediately went to a corner and, seizing a handful of clean sawdust, pressed it on the bleeding scratch. In a few moments the bleeding ceased and the blood dried, leaving a coating under which the healing was prompt."

"Rev. Egerton R. Young, a missionary in Northwestern Canada, shows us that the surgical instincts of the dog may become so far developed as to produce a real surgeon-doctor. One of his dogs spontaneously took up this work and became so expert that the Indians called him Muskeke Atim, the surgeon. Galls, wounds, frozen feet, &c., in the other dogs were successfully and systematically treated by Dr. Rover. The wounds or sores that could not be reached by the dog's own tongue did not heal. The fact shows that, in a state of health and with pure food, the dog's saliva has a perfect bactericidal and healing power. Perhaps it would make an ideal antiseptic. No bacteriologist has caught the hint."

Tom Reed's Collar.

[Kansas City Journal.]

Among the prominent men of New England there was none, perhaps, who wore a larger collar than Tom Reed. One hot day in the summer of 1901 Reed was in Portsmouth, and, having to wait over for a train, he decided to make an impromptu toilet, changing his collar, &c. So he hid himself to the nearest haberdasher's and began a general survey of the collars displayed in the store. "Waited on, sir?" queried one of the clerks. "Not yet," responded Reed, and then added: "I would like a collar." "What size?" piped the clerk. "Size 20," answered Reed. "We don't keep collars so large, but I think you may be accommodated at the store just around the corner." Reed found the store around the corner to be a harness shop.

Sickening Shivering Fits of Ague and Malaria, can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to Quinine, having none of this drug's bad after-effects. E. S. Munday, of Henrietta, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice, till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life. At Z. Wayne Griffin & Bros., drug store; price 50c, guaranteed."

EVOLUTION OF BICYCLES.

Been in use in Some or other for Nearly two Centuries.

The original bicycle was not made yesterday nor day before yesterday, neither was it made last week. Experimenters were working on the bicycle idea before the days of either your grandfather or your great grandfather. Nearly two centuries have elapsed since the discovery of the laws of motion which enabled the rider to keep a two-wheel machine in an upright position while moving. From that time scientists and engineers began to experiment with different machines which could be propelled by human power. Fifty years later, or in 1779, the members of the French Academy were astonished to see the first crude two-wheel machine propelled by human power. During the next hundred years all sorts and kinds of machines were produced, all heavy clumsy, hard running and utterly worthless as far as practical use was concerned each, however, a little better than its predecessor. Finally within our own recall, came the old high wheel kind, or "Ordinary," as it was called. Some had little wheels behind, others in front. Some had cranks, some had levers, while others had cog wheels, springs, straps, ratchets and what not. The price of these "bone breakers" or "head smashers" ranged from $150 to $225. It took an acrobat or gymnast to ride one. We are however, living in a different age, and thanks to modern machinery and improvement, we have our present style of safety bicycle, with its beautiful and graceful lines and shod, as it were, with its soft resilient pneumatic tire. It is no longer considered a luxury to be indulged in only by the rich. In order to reach its present state of perfection, it has overcome almost insurmountable difficulties for nearly two hundred years, is it not reasonable to say that it has come to stay? As a practical machine adapted to a great variety of useful purposes, the bicycle is swift, sure, economical and always ready. Its original cost is only a small part of the cost of that of any other means of conveyance, while the cost of keeping it is practically nothing. Its value as a money-saver can perhaps be appreciated by those who have occasion to journey to and from home daily a certain number of times. A quick mental calculation will serve to show how soon a bicycle, as a substitute for street car service, can be made to pay for itself.

As a means of exercise the bicycle brings into alert and healthful activity every nerve, muscle and faculty. It moves with its rider like a thing of life, and adds to the mere physical exercise the exhilaration of rapid flight in the open air and the interest of constantly changing scenes. It has well been said that the training of the eye and ear, the alertness and suppleness of limb and joint and muscle, the quick observation, the habits of prompt decision and self-reliance necessarily developed by bicycling, are such as to cause it to lead in these respects every form of outdoor exercise.

VICTORY FOR CALEB POWERS

Judge Cochran Holds That he has Never had a Fair Trial.

Powers Delighted With Decision-- Fair Trial is now Assured.

Maysville, Ky., July 7. Caleb Powers is to be tried in the United States Circuit Court of the eastern district of Kentucky at London for complicity in the murder of William Goebel at Frankfort. This was settled here to-day when United States District Judge Cochran announced that he would take jurisdiction in the case, as had been moved by attorneys for Powers.

Judge Cochran's opinion holds that the prosecution against Caleb Powers, pending in the Scott county Circuit Court has been removed to the United States Circuit Court for the eastern District of Kentucky by the removal proceeding taken in May at Georgetown in Powers' behalf under section 641, United States Revised Statutes and sustains his motion for a writ of habeas corpus to transfer his custody from that of the State of Kentucky to that of the United States. The ground upon which the court makes its finding is that it appears that the defendant has been and is denied the equal protection of the laws secured to him under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States by the Scott county Circuit Court, and cannot enforce his rights thereto in the Court of Appeals because of Section 281 of the Criminal Code as construed by that court.

That section provides in effect that, no matter what the officers of the trial court may do to get together a jury to suit them, the accused shall not take exceptions to such acts, or, in other words, the trial Judge may totally disregard the objections of the prisoner to having a jury packed on him, and the Court of Appeals cannot reverse a judgment of conviction so obtained.

As soon as the court had entered the order holding that he had jurisdiction of the case on removal, he ordered the Clerk to issue a writ of habeas corpus cum causa directing the Jailor of Scott county to deliver Powers to Capt. Steve Sharpe, the United States Marshal for the eastern district and the Marshal to remove Powers to the Campbell county jail at Newport where all Federal prisoners for the Eastern district of Kentucky are confined.

Capt. Sharpe will go to Georgetown Saturday to execute the order of court and take possession of the prisoner.

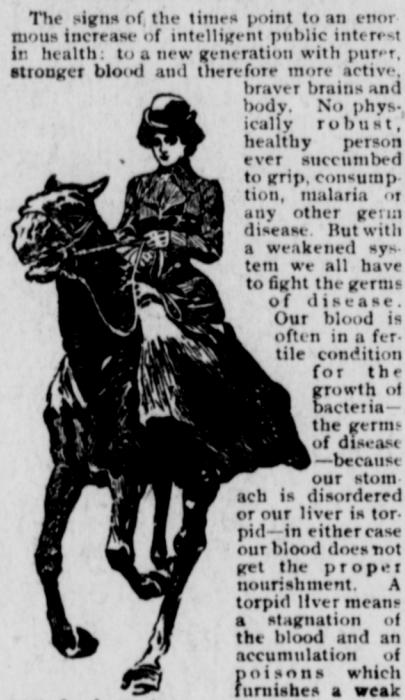

The Commonwealth prayed an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, and counsel stated that they would ask that court, when it meets in October, to advance the case so as to get an early decision.

In the meantime the trial of Powers, which was to commence at Georgetown next Monday, will not be held and he will remain in the custody of the United States Court until the Supreme Court acts, when, if Judge Cochran is sustained, he will be put on trial in the United States Court at London.

Judge Cochran's opinion, which covers forty-three pages of closely written typewriting, is pronounced by attorneys, who heard it delivered, the most exhaustive and well sustained opinion ever delivered in any of the courts of this section, and the opinion is freely expressed that the Supreme Court will sustain him.

On being informed of Judge Cochran's decision Mr. Powers said: "To say I am delighted with the news of Judge Cochran's decision transferring my case into the Federal Court for trial expresses my feelings but tamely. For nearly five and a half years I have lain behind prison bars waiting for reason to resume its sway and justice to return to its moorings. All three of my trials have been illegal and unfair. The Court of appeals has three times so decided. That fact is beyond dispute. No fairminded man doubts it or the fact that I should be treated fairly; should be given a chance. I am a Kentuckian. I love my State. I seek of it is a fair and impartial trial. This should not be denied me, but on the contrary every Kentuckian who loves the good name of his State should demand that

ACROSS COUNTRY.

The signs of the times point to an enormous increase of intelligent public interest in health: to a new generation with purer, stronger blood and therefore more active, braver brains and body. No physically robust, healthy person ever succumbed to grip, consumption, malaria or any other germ disease. But with a weakened system we all have to fight the germs of disease. Our blood is often in a fertile condition for the growth of bacteria—the germs of disease—because our stomach is disordered or our liver is torpid—in either case our blood does not get the proper nourishment. A torpid liver means a stagnation of the blood and an accumulation of poisons which furnishes a weak spot for bacteria to enter.

To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscles, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a vegetable compound, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, that would quickly cure the bad symptoms by increasing the red blood corpuscles and thereby feeding the nerves on rich blood. This "Medical Discovery" also acts upon the digestion and assimilation of food, so that the blood gets its proper elements from the products of digestion. Feed the lungs, stomach and heart on rich red blood and you have surely a healthy body which will throw off the germs of disease which lurk everywhere. Get as near nature's way as you can. A medicine made entirely from botanical extracts and which does not contain alcohol is the safest. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

much for me. I am innocent of the charge against me and such a trial means my liberation. The prosecution has never given me a fair trial and it never intends for me to have one if it can prevent it. "If the prosecution wanted me to have a fair trial, it would not make any difference to it whether that fair trial was held in a State or Federal Court. The best proof that the prosecution never intends to have a fair trial if it can prevent it is the fact that it is resisting my efforts to get into the Federal Court for such a trial. But I have always believed that justice and right in this case will finally prevail, and I am now more hopeful of it than ever before."

PAUL JONES' BODY

Turned Over to American Representative Under Impressive Auspices.

The ceremony of delivering the body of Admiral Paul Jones to the representative of the United States was held at 3:30 last Thursday afternoon in the American church at Paris France in the presence of a distinguished gathering of the highest official military and naval dignitaries of Francis, the diplomatic representatives of many countries and special ambassadors and naval authorities sent from the United States to receive the body.

The formal ceremony consisted of the delivering of the body by Gen. Porter as the finder and custodian to Mr. Loomis, representing the United States appointed to receive it, and Mr. Loomis commissioning Admiral Sigsbee to transport it to America. General Porter said in part:

"It is a matter of extreme gratification to feel that the body of this intrepid commander is to be conveyed across the sea by war vessels of the navy of which he was the honored founder and to whose sailors his name is still an inspiration; and that this high mission is confided to so gallant an officer of the same noble profession as the distinguished Admiral commanding the escorting squadron. All that is mortal of this illustrious organizer of forces on the sea lies in yonder coffin beneath the folds of our national standard.

"When congress adopted the present form for the American flag it embodied in the same resolution the appointment of Capt. Jones to command the ship Ranger. When he received the news, history attributes to him the following remark: Born the same hour from the same womb of destiny, we cannot be parted in life or death."

"Alas they were parted during 113 years but happily they are now reunited."

The usual spectacle of a detachment of United States soldiers and marines swinging through the central thoroughfares of Paris to-day aroused great interest and brought out an enthusiastic ovation from crowds along the line of march.

The American naval contingent, numbering five hundred men with twenty-five officers left Cherbourg 3 o'clock in the morning arriving at the Incalides Railroad station at 11:40 a. m. The sailors and marines presented a fine appearance.

A company of French Infantry was drawn up fronting the station to receive the Americans. The latter formed a battalion and unfurled the American flag and their naval ensign. At the same moment the French troops came to a salute. The French standard was dipped and a French band played the "Star Banged Banner." The great crowds which had surged across Alexander bridge shouted "Vive Les Americains," "Vive La France," the entire multitude uncovering respectfully while the American anthem was played. Another outburst of enthusiasm greeted the "Marseillaise" and then the French escort took up the line of march.

The demonstration is incidental to the conveying of the remains of John Paul Jones back to America.

MAN HAS TWO HEARTS

And He Offers to Sell Them to Be Delivered at Death.

Telegrams and telephone messages in answer to his advertisement to sell his body and two hearts after death have kept A. Durr, of New Rochelle, N. Y., busy of late. Although it is known that Durr has been offered large sums of money for his body, he refuses to state the amounts. He is keeping these a secret in hopes that a larger sum may be tendered. None of the offers so far received has been accepted, nor is it likely that a choice will be made for some time, in order to give the entire medical profession of the country a chance to entertain the proposition.

Durr's advertisement, which was printed recently in a New York paper, read as follows:

"I agree to sell my two hearts, the buyer being entitled to same after my death. Signed, A. Durr, care of the Central Hotel, New Rochelle, N. Y."

Durr is a carpenter. He is thirty-five years old, single and the picture of health. He works every day and leads a regular life. Up to a few years ago Durr did not know that he possessed two hearts. This was discovered when he called a physician to treat him for a slight attack of sickness. Since then he has submitted to examination by many of the most celebrated specialists in the country.

Recently a prominent specialist offered Durr $10,000 if he would allow him to perform an operation and remove one of the hearts. This the carpenter declined to do, as he feared he might die and not be able to enjoy the money. If Durr succeeds in getting his price for his body the money will have to be paid over immediately and he will give the purchaser a deed good after death.

It is said that Durr expects to receive several thousand dollars from some medical college for his hearts, as his case will be of great value to medical science.

To Rid Hogs of Lice.

How to rid hogs of lice was thoroughly discussed at the recent meeting of the Ohio Swine Breeders' institute. Crude or coal oil mixed with linsed or lard oil was recommended. Frequently the lice are very abundant inside the ears. To apply the louse killer to the inside of the ear use a paint brush. The best remedy in cold weather for lice is gasoline. It kills instantly and rapidly evaporates.

Several members gave their experience of dipping for lice. With small shotes it works successfully. Older hogs are not so easily driven into the dipping tank, especially if they had a previous dipping. If the preparation we use to kill the lice does not destroy the vitality of the eggs or nits we must continue the treatment.

Spoiled Her Beauty.

Harriet Howard, of 209 W. 34th St. New York, at one time had her beauty spoiled with skin trouble. ### Snake Didn't Swallow Baby.

Mrs. Annie Martin, living on Clay Branch, in Lee county, had a desperate tussle with a black snake a few days ago, says the Breathitt County News. She was milking a cow and her little four-year-old child was standing near, when the child uttered a cry. The mother went to its aid and found the snake wrapped around his body. After a hard fight she killed the reptile, which measured seven feet and four inches in length. The snake had to be unwrapped from around the child after it was killed. The child will recover.

Billious Bill was agitated. And was much debilitated. People said he had consumption. That was everyone's presumption. When we learned what was the matter, Bill made all the doctors scatter. Now he is his own adviser. Swears by Little Early Risers.

We are authorized to announce J. H. MILES or the office of Magistrate of the Rockport Magisterial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Examine the label on your paper if it is not correct notify us.

If Democrats continue to praise President Roosevelt W. J. Bryan is liable to become jealous.

By the way, do you ever hear of the man who, about a year ago, was taking a daily swim in the Hudson at Esopus, N. Y.?

THE world would know a great deal more about the situation at Odessa if the Russian press censor should decide to turn State's evidence.

WE estimate that this issue of THE REPUBLICAN will be read by not less than six thousand people, and we are not sending out any extra copies either.

THE proposition to produce cobless corn may be just a scheme to prevent some of us from foundering ourselves during the roasting ear season.

THE report of the recent lynching at Watkinsonville, Georgia, concludes with the statement that no more trouble is expected. There being no more prisoners in the jail it was clear that the trouble was over.

THE nation has got well rid of a cheap man in the passing of engineer Wallace. He could have immortalized his name by the construction of the Panama canal, but he allowed himself to be lured away by greater immediate gain.

WHEN a Texan, who had been arrested in New York for drunkenness, was asked if he wished to employ an attorney or go to jail he promptly expressed a decided preference for jail. The Gotham lawyer's fame extends far beyond the State boundaries.

THE trials of Caleb Powers in the State Courts of Kentucky have been judicial scandals all along; and now that the case has been transferred to the United States Court, he may get a square deal. It is but proper to remember that Powers was not in Frankfort when Goebel was killed and there has never been any evidence to show that he had anything to do with the killing. His execution would have been as shameful as the hanging of Mrs. Sarratt. [Memphis Commercial Appeals Democrat.

WITH this issue THE REPUBLICAN completes the seventeenth year of its career. During that period it has grown from a small five column folio to a six column quarto, with a splendid circulation. The present management extends over the past two years and the success, if any, we have attained during that period can be measured by the volume of readable news THE REPUBLICAN brings to its increased number of readers, the most excellent line of both local and foreign advertising that we carry and the further fact that increased expense of publishing an eight page paper has been promptly met by the earnings of the same. Valuable assistance in giving our readers the news while it is new, has been rendered us by our most excellent choir of correspondents and other contributors which we gratefully acknowledge.

JUDGE COCHRAN has sustained Caleb Powers' motion for a transfer of his case from the Scott county Circuit Court to the United States Court. In his opinion handed down on determining the motion for transfer, Judge Cochran holds that Mr. Powers has never had a fair and impartial trial and that under the laws of Kentucky he is unable to enforce the rights guaranteed him by the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. An appeal has been taken by the State's attorneys and Beckham's hired representatives to the Supreme Court of the United States, which will not be determined before November next. Caleb Powers has been a prisoner of the State in the custody of various county Jailers for more than five years and has grown pallid from his long confinement, yet he has always been confident of success in the fight for his life. He is to-day looked upon everywhere, outside of the ranks of the ultra Goebelites, as the Dreyfus of America, the victim of outrageous political theft and monstrous judicial tyranny. His story is on every tongue, and justice will yet reward him for his five years' fight.

MACCABEE BARBECUE.

March to the Fair Grounds
Where Sumptuous Dinner is Served.

One of the nicest social entertainments in the history of Hartford's fraternal circles occurred here yesterday, the local lodge of the Knights of The Maccabees being the entertainers. At 10:30 o'clock nearly the entire membership of the lodge consisting of fifty or more stalwart young Knights and a splendid representation of Ladies of The Maccabees—twenty or more fair dames—formed in line at the lodge hall and began the march to the fair grounds.

The marching line was headed by the officers who donned most beautiful lodge regalia; then came the Ladies, bourne in splendid rigs, all dressed in white and wearing the emblem of the order and lodge colors; these were followed by the other Knights who also bore the lodge emblem and colors. The entire procession kept perfect step to beautiful strains of music furnished by the Hartford Orchestra and the march was continued through the main portions of town and to the fair grounds where the line of march was broken and the Knights and Dames mingled in social intercourse with each other and invited guests.

In due time dinner was announced and all assembled in the spacious dining hall, which was beautifully decorated with bunting and flags, to partake of the repast that the most exacting epicure would justly feel envious of, and ere long it was the general comment that Dr. Pendleton, Messrs. Foreman, Collins, Riley and Thomas, the committee on arrangements had done justice to this part of the program. After noon some time was spent exchanging social greeting then all hied themselves to their homes to await with fond anticipation a recurrence of another entertainment just like it.

It was indeed a great day for the Maccabees. Every one present seemed to enjoy every feature of the entertainment to its fullest extent.

Narrows Incidents.

In the garden of John Nelson, a farmer living near here, a chrysanthemum, the rich, rare flower that has heretofore reserve its fragrance and its beauty to grace the smoky autumn days, is flowering. Two flowers, perfect in form color and fragrance and four other buds are quick with bloom.

The cabbage snake, that dread monster of the vegetable deep, has invaded this community. At the dinner table Saturday Ed Foreman's family discovered a cabbage snake in a dish upon which that vegetable was being served. The family had eaten heartily of the cabbage before the serpent was discovered, and Mrs. Foreman and Mrs. Nattie Boswell, her guest, were severely frightened, and were very sick as a result emetics administered as an antidote for the supposed poison. Mr. Foreman and his son poo-pooed the poison theory and escaped nausea. From a careful examination of this specimen the writer is prepared to say that the cabbage snake is not a myth, but from its observed effect upon Mr. Foreman and his son he is equally convinced that it is not poisonous. This snake was about three inches long, black with dotted white lines around its body and about one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter.

A. E. Jennings' saw and planing mill began operation here Wednesday. Mr. Jennings' mill is scarcely less complete than the large Evansville mills, and will cut everything from baseball bats to ship timbers.

The local train on the Owensboro branch I. C., wrecked at Board's Tuesday at noon. Two boxes and caboose went over an embankment thirty feet high. Eight men were in the caboose and conductor Geo. Arnold was in the cupola but none of them was seriously hurt. The northbound 3:30 passenger train was delayed about five hours.

That Loafers' Club about which some blatherskite has been writing from here was all a myth. No more industrious and enterprising people can be found anywhere than those living in and about Narrows. Your paper should not print such rot.

BRIGHTENS COUNTRY LIFE.

Rural Free Delivery is a Luxury.
But Is Well Worth
Its Cost.

Anything that makes life in the country more attractive, and so arrests to a degree the concentration of population in the cities, is worth paying out money for, and hence our law-makers are looking forward with no great apprehension to the sixty millions of dollars a year charge which the rural free delivery seems destined to entail. The most marked effect of this development upon the Senators and Representatives of States having large cities will be to stiffen their backs in insisting that a reasonable division of postal revenues shall go for improvements in the urban mail service, such as pneumatic tubes, other facilities for quickening the mail service of the congested centers.

The postal establishment sees some enormous contracts; a single building in New York City contains 5,200 persons during the working days, and they are nearly all letter writers. Their average use of the postal service probably equals that of 52,000 persons in the rural districts. It is necessary to make thirty-three collections a day in some of the New York buildings to get the accumulating mail out of the way.

The other side of the story is the rural region where an inspector, desirous of establishing a rural route, has to exert himself to the utmost to count in 100 families which could be served in a ride of twenty-four miles. The original idea was to require that amount of support, but there are hundreds of routes in operation to-day for the accommodation of a much smaller number of householders, and in making rural delivery universal, within the limits of practicability, which is now the aim of Congress and the Department, it will be necessary to include a great many routes of considerably less than 100 families. The argument that rural delivery would "pay" has been abandoned, if indeed it can be said ever to have been held by intelligent persons. It effects an occasional economy, in cutting off a star route or a fourth-class post office, but that is a trifling fraction of its cost. Rural free delivery is a luxury, but one which the country is perfectly willing to pay for.

The theory that it is profitable by stimulating business is hardly tenable, since the business itself does not pay. The great increase occasioned by the rural free delivery service comes in the circulation of newspapers and other second-class matter. This the government carries at an obvious loss, as a subsidy to the cause of public education, and so a large business in this line, while it may be welcomed as doing more for this same public education, does not indicate an increase of profit. However, these are considerations over which the American people care but little; they like an efficient postal establishment, and the next aim should be to do for the inhabitants of the American city as much in proportion to the postal service as is now being done for the people of the country. The transfer of mail across our cities, by comparison with that of other countries, is doing, is lamentably slow. This should be quickened. Rural congressmen, when they get their universal free delivery, should be willing to turn about and let the cities have something in the way of quick mail communication.

ENORMOUS POWER

Required by an Ocean Whale
Traveling Thirty Miles an Hour.

[Saturday Evening Post]

Study of the speed of fishes is embarrassed by unavoidable difficulties. It is not possible, as with birds, to set up tall poles at intervals of a quarter of a mile, and, with the help of stop watches, time them as they go by. Nevertheless, recent investigation of the subject goes to show that the mackerel, if not the champion racer of the briny deep, comes pretty near to carry off the honors. Unquestionable it travels sometimes as fast as an express train at high

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail.

Home of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

speed—say, at the rate of 60, or possibly 70 miles an hour.

Other things being equal, the larger the fish, the faster it swims—just as the huge steamboat is able to travel at a speed much greater than the little harbor tug. Undoubtedly the energy employed by a fish of great size, such as a thirty foot shark, when traveling at its best gait, is something tremendous. An ordinary tug, which represents a maximum of energy in a minimum of bulk, utilizes about 200 horse power. Of course, it is only a guess but it would not seem to be over the mark to 500 horse power when it propels its huge bulk through the water at a rate of 30 miles an hour. A whale—which is a mammal, and not a fish—might be compared to a freight train if the shark is a cannon ball express, but it can beat the fastest "ocean greyhound" in a speed contest.

If there is a fish that can travel faster than a shark it must be the taepoon, which can probably "hit her up" to the tune of 90 miles an hour if pressed for time. Generally speaking it may be said that finny creatures which live near the surface of the sea are swift swimmers as compared with those that dwell in the depths. Thus the cod, which is a deep water species, is sluggish and would stand no show at all in a race with the mackerel or herring. These latter which are distinctly pelagic, depend for their living upon their activity in pursuing agile prey, and they must be quick in their movements in order to escape their own enemies.

If the mackerel was as big as a good sized shark it would probably be the speed champion of the ocean. No fish is better shaped for rapid going. Some years ago a yacht builder in New York constructed a sloop with a hull patterned exactly after the under body of a Spanish mackerel. She was called the Undine, and if tradition does not lie, she never was beaten. Like the fish after which she was modeled she had her greater breadth of beam forward of amidships a decidedly novel idea in boat building. One may say, indeed, that all modern water craft are more or less fishlike in their make up yet, on the whole, it is surprising that marine architects have not striven more earnestly than they have done to obtain hints from Nature's own illustrations of aquatic speed-making principles.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Hannibal Hamlin's Story of His English Client.

Hannibal Hamlin, for many years a United States senator from Maine and vice president during the civil war, was wont to tell the following story on himself:

An Englishman by the name of Pearson while passing along the main street in Bangor stepped into a hole in the sidewalk and, falling, broke his leg. He brought suit against the city for $1,000 and engaged Hamlin as counsel.

"That's your damages," said Hamlin.

Hamlin won his case, but the city appealed to the supreme court. Here also the decision was for Hamlin's client.

After settling up the claim Hamlin sent for his client and handed him $1.

"What's this?" asked the Englishman.

"That's your damages, after taking out my fee, the cost of appeal and several other expenses," said Hamlin.

The Englishman looked at the dollar and then at Hamlin. "What's the matter with this?" he said. "Is it bad?"—Boston Herald.

The Bird Had Flown.

Shortly after congress adjourned Representative Smith of Pennsylvania was talking to one of the department heads about "looking after" one of his constituents. "I wrote you a letter," said the representative, "and I am reminded of what happened in my state about a letter of introduction. A rich old planter who lived in one of the interior districts near Philadelphia got tangled up in a money matter with one of his neighbors. Mr. Alston, for that was his name, sought an attorney, who gave him a letter of introduction to a brother lawyer in Philadelphia, at which place it was necessary to enter the suit. The letter was delivered to the lawyer, and while he was reading it he was called out of the room, leaving the letter on his desk. Mr. Alston let curiosity get the best of him, and he picked up the letter and read it. The letter closed with: 'Mr. Alston is a fat goose. Pluck him heavy.'"

"That was enough for the rich old farmer, and, seizing a pen, he wrote:—"

"P. S.—The goose has flown, feathers and all."

"It took him about three seconds to amble down the stairs and into the street, and he has not had anything to do with lawyers from that day to this, preferring to pluck his own geese."—Washington Star.

Case of Substitution.

A prominent Tammany politician has a wife who is a model of all the domestic virtues. Among her other accomplishments is a talent for making homemade bread, and she naturally takes a great pride in having her loaves turn out well. One evening recently she had finished setting the batch of dough to rise in the kitchen and was resting herself reading in the parlor when the silence was disturbed by her six-year-old son, who came running upstairs crying: "Mamma, mamma! There's a mouse jumped into your bread pan!"

The good woman was much perturbed and frantically asked, "Did you take him out?"

"No'm, but I done just as good. I threw de cat in, an' she's diggin' after him to beat de band!"—New York Times.

Another Jefferson Story.

The late Joseph Jefferson stocked the lake on his Louisiana farm with bass and other game fish. Not long ago he came upon a stranger fishing in his lake.

"See here!" said the great comedian. "What do you mean by catching my fish?"

"Begorra," replied the fisherman, slowly removing his pie from his mouth. "O'm not fishin'! O'm tachin' these wurrums how to swim!"—Acheson Globe.

Nothing has ever equalled it.
Nothing can ever surpass it.

My Own Story

By

Caleb Powers

This book is a calm, dispassionate account, from the standpoint of the man most interested, of the conditions in Kentucky leading to the assassination of William Goebel, and of Powers' indictment and conviction on the charge of complicity in his murder.

It covers his youth in the mountains of Kentucky, the conventions of 1899, the election, the shooting of Goebel, the arrest, the three trials and the prison life.

For dramatic situations, human interest and political importance, the case of Caleb Powers is unequalled.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Of Antarctic Explorers Who Lived
Six Weeks in a Blizzard.

[Chicago News.]

Very strange were some of the experiences undergone and phenomena witnessed by members of the recent Antarctic exploring expedition sent out by the Swedish Government, as recorded in the new book by Dr. Nordenskjöld and Dr. Anderson. In the journey southward the complete climatic transformation in a few hundred miles they found to be astonishing. Four days earlier Nordenskjöld had seen the humming birds and the evergreen forests of Tierra del Fuego, where the natives go almost nude in summer; then he suddenly came upon a coast in the bright early summer where snow and ice were deeper than he had ever seen them on the shores of Greenland. Graham Land is so far north that it is never wrapped in the gloom of the long polar night. At Snow Hill Camp the sun was above the horizon at least four hours every day in winter, and yet the six explorers who lived there were overwhelmed by the fiercest and longest storm recorded in polar annals. The Antarctic has the sternest type of winter weather that explorers know.

For six weeks from May 1, 1902, the south wind blew with almost incessant hurricane force. It was thick with snow dust, and moving at from 30 to 70 miles an hour, had almost the impelling power of Mond Pelee's blast. At 44 miles an hour the men could barely stand erect against the impact of millions of ice crystals; at 62 miles they crawled on hands and knees to take their observations at the instruments. Small stones were caught up and hurled out upon the sea of ice, the rowboat was carried to a new lodgment on the flank of a mountain, and the cabin and instruments huts, though stoutly built and braced, were badly damaged. The temperature was not very low for that region, but the men had to live all those six weeks in a hurricane, with the thermometer ranging from 22 to 25 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. The mean velocity of the wind for the last two weeks was 41½ miles an hour.

Among the scientific results was the discovery in many places of plant and animal fossil, the first ever brought home from the Antarctic excepting a few found by the sealer Larsen. They included petrified tree trunks and the well-preserved imprint of leaves belonging to fossil families of South America and Europe as well as specimens of the beech and other trees of the present day. There were numerous forms of mollusca and other sea life and one land animal, the whole showing that this was once a land of luxuriant vegetation and that at some time much of it was buried under the sea. Here, it is thought, a number of type of plants and animals may have developed and found their way to northern lands.

Some of the incidents of the winter: Sealskin with the blubber attached was a very smoky but not bad fuel. There was flour at Snow

CONDENSED STORIES.

The Pictured Woman Was Not the Artist's Ideal.

"At the Whistler exhibition in London," said a tourist, "I had a chat with Joseph Pennell, the well known artist. Pennell had spent his boyhood in Germantown with me, and so we talked of our old Germantown friends. We talked of a boy who had become an artist and married a rich woman.

"Pennell said this chap was not altogether happy. He said he would tell me a story about him that would reveal subtly, in a Henry James manner, the cause of his unhappiness.

"A stranger visited the man's studio one day and paused, full of wonder, before a life size, full length picture of a woman in a white Greek dress.

"Is this," said the stranger, in a tone of amazement, 'your ideal'?"

"No," the artist answered. "It's my wife."

—New Orleans State.

Welcoming a Kentuckian.

Ex-Congressman Asher G. Caruth of Kentucky tells this story of an experience he once had on a visit to a little Ohio town:

"I went up there on legal business," he says, "and, knowing that I should have to stay all night, I proceeded directly to the only hotel. The landlord stood behind the desk and regarded me with a kindly air as I registered. It seems that he was a little hard of hearing, a fact of which I was not aware. As I jabbed the pen back into the dish of bird shot, I said:

"Can you direct me to the bank?"

"He looked at me blankly for a second. Then, swinging the register around, he glanced down swiftly, caught the 'Louisville' after my name, and, an expression of complete understanding lighting up his countenance, he said:

"Certainly, sir! You will find the bar right through that door at the left."—Harper's Weekly.

Twice Widowed By Suicides.

Mocon, Mo., July 10.—Henry Spiker, forty years old, committed suicide in the county jail last night by tearing his shirt into strips and hanging himself to the bars. Recently he told the police that he was jealous of his wife. John Lowery, Mrs. Spiker's first husband committed suicide three years ago because of jealousy.

Mrs. Spiker is a middle-aged woman. At the inquest this morning she said she will never marry again; because men were so foolish.

Something Doing in Ohio County.

The work of the Y. M. C. A., is beginning to take a hold in all parts of the county and the unselfish work of many cannot result in anything but good for the betterment of Ohio county young men and boys. Work has been done at eleven different points. Recently four Sunday meetings were held for the men at different points where right living bible study and responsibility to ones self were emphasized.

Judge J. P. Miller and Dr. J. R. Pirtle went to Taylor Mines, Prof. T. J. Morton and D. E. Thomas went to Render, E. C. House, of Indiana, spoke at Hartford and John T. King and R. Sidenus went to Marvins Chapel. Not long ago five men went from Hartford to Fordsville on a like mission. These men went not for any self interest but to show that there are some that are willing to be used for "Him."

A group of men meets every Sunday at Hartford at 2:30 o'clock to discuss things that are vital. Last Sunday's discussion was on "Means of Grace." All men are always welcome and spend a profitable hour.

What we expect to be the best gathering of the people in Ohio county will take place at the Y. M. C. A. rally at Sulphur Springs. Mr. G. B. Likens has had the program in charge and he has already secured Rev. W. G. Archer, of Chattanooga fame for one of his characteristic addresses. His subject will be "Out of the Ruts." Services beginning at 10 o'clock with preaching at 11 by a strange preacher. The Hartford quartette will sing and orchestra will play; and there will be special solos.

Next Sunday July 16th is the time and everybody is invited. No more desirable place can be found for such a meeting than the "Springs." Splendid improvements, water fine. Come and worship a full day in "Gods out of doors." A good dinner can be procured at the hotel at reasonable rates by all who do not bring baskets. For further particulars address G. B. Likens, Hartford, Ky.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. at Hartford will give "a trip around the world" next Tuesday, July 17th, in three hours. Between the hours of 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock you will be taken from the Grand Central Depot to Japan, Ireland, France, Germany, Sweden and stopping at in Old Kentucky. The ladies are promising us many surprises and they say the entire trip with refreshments in each country will only cost 25 cents a piece. Souvenirs will be sold at each point. Tickets can be procured from any of the "fair agents" representing the new road.
